Support institutions at the University of Warsaw

Posted on: 08-07-2026

Where can I seek help at the University of Warsaw? Who should I contact if I experience discrimination, mobbing, or other undesirable behavior? What are the available avenues, and how do they differ?

To make it easier to find the most important information, the Equality Team has prepared new infographics. The first one details the institutions and units operating at the University of Warsaw that offer support to students, PhD candidates, and employees. The second one provides an accessible explanation of the possible avenues for dealing with matters concerning discrimination, unequal treatment, mobbing, and other undesirable behavior.

The infographics were created for those who need quick and clear information – whether they have experienced undesirable behavior themselves, witnessed it, or want to learn about the support available at the university.

The materials are already available online, as shown below. They are also available in printable format, and leaflets will be made available in selected University of Warsaw units.

We encourage you to familiarize yourself with the materials and share them with the academic community. This will make information about available forms of support more easily accessible to all those who may need it.
